feet wide and eighteen inches deep.
It will require sixty horses to draw it.

General Harney recommends that anyone who is caught selling whisky to the Indians should be shot down or hung up on the spot. That is radical treatment, but it would cure a few.

The Reno Journal says there are three feet of snow in Honey Lake and Surprise Valleys, and that cattle are Judge Stidger, a very forcible writer, has retired from the Nevada Daily Transcript and settled at North San Juan. His old partner, N. P. Brown,

The Belcher Mining Company, of Nevada, yielded during the year 1873 over ten million dollars in bullion, a little over half of which was gold and the balance silver. The Enterprise during the present year will reach $40,000,000.

Money is very plenty in Boston, and the banks are plenting their customers to take it off their hands at a low rate of interest. If some of their surplus currency was brought to the Pacific coast, and loaned at a fair rate of interest, as currency, principal and interest payable in greenbacks, the business would be profitable alike to lender and borrower.

The State Grange of North Carolina

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.

A Washington special says that since the committee agreed to Mc-Crory's bill and the accompanying report, there has been time for reflection, which has had the effect to weaken its hold on Congressmen who were at first disposed to accept it as a feasible plan for the solution of the cheap transportation problem. It provides as will be remembered for a board of nine commissioners, who are in effect, to have the control of the 67,000 miles of railroad in this country. This will have the effect of creating another department or bureau at Washington, and if the duties devolved upon the board by the bill are faithfully performed, it will require a clerical force of such numbers as will make it second only in importance to the Treasury Department.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.

The Senate in executive session today, after an hour's discussion on the nomination of Simmons as Collector of Boston, confirmed the same by vote ing affirmatively.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.

About one thousand ladies inaugurated a crusade against the liquor dealers here to-day. They delegated twenty of their number, who visited the saloons, around which they sang and their doors, a number of roughs gathered and ridiculed the proceedings, when the proprietors called on the police, but they refused to interfere.

A number of prominent saloon keepers in Chestnut street have received written notices that ladies in a body will soon call on them.

"What's in a name?" A good deal at times. The daughter of Don Carlos, the pretender to the throne of Spain, for instance, has plenty in hers, which, according to a contemporary, is, in French, Blanche-de-Castille-Marie-dele-Conception-Therese-Francoise d'Assis-Marguerite-Jeanne-Beatrice-Elvira-Idelfonso-Regina-Josephe-Michelle-Gabrielle-Raphaelle. These constitute the young lady's Christian name only, and when her titles are added there is probably a dozen lines or so more. It is to be hoped that the Don is not going to have a large family, for two or three children christened in this fashion would exhaust the vocabulary.

VASCO DA GAMA.

An Account of the Famous Portuguese Navigator.

Since the arrival of the steamer Vasco da Gama at this port, we have heard quite a number of inquiries as to who he was, and no doubt a short sketch of him will be entertaining. Vasco da Gama was a Portuguese nobleman, and conducted around the Cape of Good Hope to India the first European expedition. In 1497, King Emanuel of Portugal, fitted out three ships under the command of Vasco da Gama, for a voyage of discovery, and this age obtained the name of the Golden Age, from the immense treasure obtained.

After the discovery of America by Columbus, in 1492, Pope Alexander VI, by a bull dated May 3, 1493, granted to the King of Spain all the countries and islands discovered 100 leagues westward and southward of the Azores and Cape Verde Islands. Previous to this, the Portuguese discovered the passage around the Cape of Good Hope and had obtained a grant from Pope Martin V, in 1442, of all countries discovered to the south and east of Cape Bajadore, which is on the west side of Africa, latitudes 27 degrees north and looked upon the will of Alexander VI as an encroachment on their grant, and to dispute the Spaniards' right.
Both nations, however, came to an agreement in 1494, that all the western discoveries should belong to Spain, and all the eastern discoveries to Portugal.

Europe, for 2,000 years, had received its spices and silks from the Persians, the Arabians and the Egyptians, who brought them to the ports of the Mediterranean, and the Venetians, Genoesians and Spanish resorted thither, and sold them all over Europe at most extravagant and almost fabulous prices; so the spices and silks of the Indies were the means of discovery of America and the Cape of Good Hope.
Da Gama discovered the Cape of Good Hope on December 20, 1497; sailed to the northward, and off Mozambique found seven sail of Arabian ships. These Arabians or Moors had the mariner's compass, sea-charts and quadrants, which was not known to the Europeans till about the time that Columbus ventured to America. At first the Moors treated Da Gama kindly, but no sooner did they understand him to be a Christian, than they did all manners of ill offices, foreseeing that if the Europeans should proceed to India, it would be all up with their trade.

From Mozambique, Da Gama preceeded to Melinda, in Zanguebar, where he found some Christians of India, met with a kind reception, and procured a pilot to sail with him to India. On May 19, 1498, he arrived at Calcutta. The King of Calcutta was pleased by his arrival, imagining he should find a considerable increase of his customs; but the Moors, apprehending the loss of their India trade, represented Da Gama and his men as pirates, who come to discover his weakness, and set the King against the Portuguese, that he ordered some of Da Gama's men to be seized, whereupon Da Gama, for a satisfaction, made a prize of one of the ships in the road, and a number of persons prisoners, among whom a merchant of Tunis, from whom the Portuguese learned a great deal concerning the India trade.
Da Gama returned to Portugal in 1499.
Vasco da Gama, in 1502, was sent with ten ships; a large squadron was sent out to attack the Moors, and make himself master of the India sea, which was easily effected, the Moors having but few ships of force, not needing any till now, having no enemy to encounter till the Portuguese found the way to them by the Cape of Good Hope.

The growth of freighting on the Willamette, Oregon, may be estimated from the fact that Lincoln, Polk county, in 1870, stored in its warehouses 800,000 bushels of grain, and in 1873, 1,233,000 bushels were stored.

From twenty to thirty feet of snow has accumulated in some places on the road leading from Eberhardt, White Pine, to Treasure Hill, and there is no certainty when snow will cease to fall there.

A Mendocino cow which could turn the scales at 1,818 pounds gross was recently butchered at Ukiah.

CITY AND SUBURBS.

Four car-loads of fir flooring, shipped direct from Eureka, were received at the depot Saturday.

The work of cleaning out the gutter on Spring street, near First, begun Saturday morning, and not a moment too soon.

R. H. Dalton, Esq., left on the steamer Saturday for a trip to San Francisco. He will return in about two weeks.

An unusually large lot of button was received at the depot Saturday, the late rains having prevented its arrival before.

The Articles of Association of the Spring and Sixth Street Railroad Company, of this city, were filed in the office of the Secretary of State on Tuesday.

We are informed by Mr. Littlefield that the Library bill has passed both Houses of the Legislature, and only awaits the Governor's signature to become a law.

The meeting of the Southern District Agricultural Society, advertised to take place at the Clarendon, on Saturday, did not come off. Not enough of the members were present.

The Veterans of the Mexican War, will meet at John D. Dunlap's, in the rear of S. Lazars store, to-day at 10 A. M., for the purpose of attending the funeral of their comrade Captain John Atkinson.

The Senator who sailed on Saturday for San Francisco, was crowded with passengers. At the time of sailing no berth could be obtained at any price, and many had in consequence to wait for another vessel.

The members of the Sabbath School connected with the Fort Street M. E. Church will give a concert this evening. It will be one of those pleasant affairs so popular with our people, and will doubtless draw a crowd.

One of Nadeau's heavy wagons, drawn by twelve big fat mules, collided with a buggy on Commercial street Saturday morning. The wagon sustained no serious damage, but the buggy was slightly demoralized.

Prof. Millington has opened a dancing school at Leck's Hall, where the devotees of the "light fantastic" can receive instructions in their favorite art. Prof. M. has the reputation of being a thorough master of his business.

Tickets for the High School exhibition to be given March 11th are selling rapidly, and the attendance promises to be large. Little girls seem to be the best customers, some of them not being willing to take "no" for an answer.

Our dispatches state that the bill lately passed by the Legislature increasing the salary of the Superintendent of Schools in Los Angeles county has been vetoed by Gov. Booth. While this action of the Governor may be a disappointment to some who are conscientiously laboring for what they deem to be the advantage of our educational interests, we still think his course a wise one. A reduction of salaries, instead of an increase, is what is demanded by the people, and we see no good reason for making an exception in this case.

The Warehouse and Shipping Association.

We are especially gratified to learn that the work on the wharf to be built by the Southern California Warehouse and Shipping Association is progressing rapidly. Some days ago the Herald announced that all the material for the construction of the wharf had been purchased, and now we can add that work is going on over four hundred feet of grading having already been done.

The character of the gentlemen forming this association is a sufficient guaranty that the undertaking will be fully carried out, and if anything more be needed to give the enterprise strength and popularity, it has been secured by the appointment of Col. Norman C. Jones as Superintendent. Col. Jones was formerly the energetic Superintendent of the Mobile and Atlantic Fast Freight Line, and at his business and drive the handling of grain in bulk and its distribution in large quantities through the port of New Orleans to the South Atlantic States is largely due.

A brief connection with the press of the Mississippi Valley has given the writer many opportunities of learning of Col. Jones' operations in connection with that great enterprise, and what he accomplished there is the best evidence of his ability to carry to a successful conclusion the objects of the Shipping Association.

A New Steamer in the Trade.

The light-draught steamers of the Goodall, Nelson & Perkins Line having succeeded in landing at the Wilmington wharf, and the fact that everything points to the encouragement of a direct connection of ship and rail without the intervention of the lighters, has demonstrated to the Pacific Mail Line the necessity of preparing to compete for this business.

They have accordingly ordered the "Ancon" a large, well-fitted and exceedingly light draught steamer to take her place on their line from San Francisco to Wilmington, and we are informed she will at once begin her trips.

The "Ancon" is of one thousand tons burthen, has ample accommodation for the business that will be required of her, and when loaded to her fullest capacity, will draw but eight feet of water.

She will thus be able to come direct to the wharf, and as we understand the depth of water on the bar is continually increasing, we have a reasonable assurance, that the lighterage burden, so far as freights are concerned, is practically in the way of being abolished.

This will be gratifying news to the wide circle of country trading at Los Angeles, and we hope before long to be able to state that the necessity for the use of lighters has passed entirely away.

Drunk and Disorderly.

Officer Harris, last night, found two Indians lying drunk on the corner of Los Angeles and Commercial streets, near the White House.

Mr. Harris took them in charge, and escorted them to Main street, where officer Carpenter relieved him of one of them.

To relieve the monotony of the promenade, one of the drunks would occasionally lie down in the street till the officers convinced him he had better go on to his promised lodgings.

Four inches of snow fell in Walla Walla on the 14th inst.

The Masquerade.

The Masquerade given by the Turnverein at their hall last night was one of the most elegant affairs of the kind ever attempted in this city. The hall was brilliantly decorated with flowers and evergreens, the American and German flags gracefully festooned, forming a prominent feature. The hall was so crowded that standing room was not to be had at an early hour in the evening. The evening's entertainment was opened at a quarter of ten with a grand promenade, followed by a quadrille, after which fancy dances ruled the floor. At twelve the masks were removed, and supper was shortly after served. Dancing was continued till nearly daylight. The characters were well supported especially "Uncle Sam," the "Devil," the "Astronomer," the "Morning Star," and the "Goddess of Liberty." Many others are worthy of mention, but our space forbids.

CLARENDON HOTEL, Feb. 28, 1874.
To Messrs. John G. Downey, F. P. F. Temple, E. E. Hewitt, Lewis Wolfskill, and others.

Gentlemen: Your very kind proposition has just reached me. I feel deeply the compliment you pay me, and will name next Tuesday evening, March 3d, for the occasion of the complimentary benefit and farwell appearance of myself and company in this city.

I remain yours respectfully, FANNY MORGAN PHELPS.

This excellent troupe have been performing to small houses during the past week, and while their entertainments have been of the highest character, we regret to say, that their visit to this city has not been remunerative.

The bill that has been selected for Tuesday night, on the occasion of Mrs. Phelps' benefit is one that ought to attract a crowded house, and for the credit of our town, we hope the amusement-loving public will turn out in full force.

All the miners in the employ of the Arizona Association, says the Winnemucca Register of February 26th, have been discharged and the mine shut down. In consequence thereof all the mills in the place are closed except one, which is kept running on tailings. They were forced to close the mine for the reason that the snow was so deep that it was found impossible to use the tramway.

How Chang and Eng Managed to Get Along Together.

No life could seem more undesirable and uncomfortable than that resulting from the physical union of two persons. The famous Siamese Twins appear to have lived more harmoniously than could be expected. Quite unlike each other in many respects, it is a marvel how they managed. Eng was stronger and more healthy than Chang; their physical feelings and states of mind were unlike; they did not always want to do the same thing any more than any other two persons. A couple of days before their death, Chang having become chilled by exposure during a drive, complained of being very cold, while his partner was in apparent good health, and grumbled because he had to sit by the fire. Again Eng protested and said he wished to lie down, as he was sleepy. Chang stoutly refused, and replied that it hurt his breast to recline. After a while they returned to their bed, and Eng fell into a deep sleep. Doubtless they had more frequent disagreements than was generally supposed; but they understood that their intimate relation to each other could not safely be broken, and made the best of their condition. Years ago certain experiments were tried upon the twins by leading surgeons in London, by whom it was decided that the severing of the connecting ligament would imperil both lives. It is said that for many years past the brothers have lived under a solemn compact which has been rigidly observed. This was that every alternate three days one of the twins should do as he pleased, the other being merely an appendage, and having no right to go anywhere of his own wish, or attend any of his own personal affairs. This arrangement they observed with great exactness.
